Michael Boo

While he only contributed these two very funny and topical cartoons for Drum Corps World in 1987 and 1992,

Michael Boo also wrote a series of columns titled "A Bit of Boo" that poked lighthearted fun at the individuals and corps in the activity.

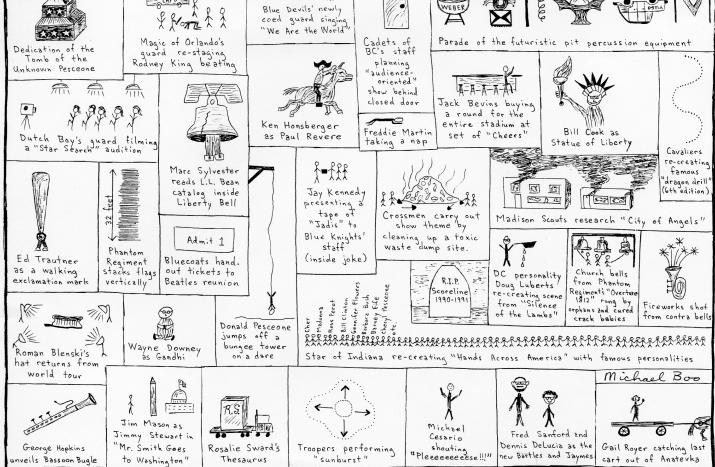

He is an accomplished keyboard musician and composer, a fan of Frank Lloyd Wright architecture and a regular writer for Drum Corps International. His material now appears on the DCI Web site as well as in various publications like DCI Today and the DCI Championship program books

Championship program books. A resident of Chesterton, IN, he marched with the Cavaliers in the mid-1970s and draws on experiences for many of his humorous articles.

JUST IN CASE YOU HAPPENED TO MISS MICHAEL CESARIO'S IN-DEPTH ANALYSIS OF BLUE DEVILS' OPENING DRILL MOVE ON THE 1987 DCI-PBS BROADCAST. DIG?

How DCI plans to stage the 20th Anniversary Championship Finale

58 🗆 The Art of Drum Corps World